Long Hau Corp (LHG)

12M rating HOLD Downgrade

Solid performance

- · 1H20 net profit rose 35.2% yoy, meeting 66% of our FY20F forecast
- Land presale growth sustain in FY21-22F driven by higher rents

Facts: 2Q20 net profit fueled by higher land sales

Long Hau's 2Q20 net profit were -30.9% qoq and +80.5% yoy to VND43.6bn, mainly fueled by robust revenue growth of land sales to VND126bn, +108.3 yoy. The exciting 1H20 revenue growth of land sales of 48.9% yoy were also the key driver to boost net 1H20 total revenue up to VND388bn, 38.2% yoy and 1H20 net profit to VND107bn, +35.2% yoy. Its 1H20 net profit formed 87.7% the company guidance and 66% our forecast.

Pros and cons: A sustainable 2H20 net profit

We forecast the 4ha backlog of land area at end-1H20 could translate into 2H20F revenue, adding to total FY20F land sale area of 12ha. We lower our land presales for 2020F to 12ha as Covid-19 will likely delay buying decisions by foreign investors given the travel restrictions. Despite a diminishing land sale area of 40%, the FY20F revenue is expected to slide by 9.9% as we witness a 33% surge yoy in LHG's land rent in 2Q20. Our new gross margin assumption is up by 4% pts, helping to offset the 20% revenue cut in our new forecast. Our new net profit stays unchanged.

Presales sustain in FY21-22F

We believe the catalyst for land area and rent in FY20F-21F is travel bubble agreements with certain countries, where there are few new Covid-19 cases. We forecast LHG's land rent grow strongly driven by demand for production or supply chains relocation from China to Vietnam. However, the growth of LHG 's land presales area could be sustainable due to its limited total area in LH3 industrial park while the expansiion is waiting for licensing procedure.

Actions: Downgrade with TP of VND20,000

We downgrade our rating to Hold as we think the potential catalyst and lure dividend yield have priced in the market price. In the medium term, we expect the new lank bank of Long Hau industrial park 3 phase 2 could trigger a surprising business growth FY22-23F.

■ Company overview

Long Hau Corporation (LHG) owns a large industrial park land bank. Close to HCMC via Nha Be District, Long Hau industrial parks have a more strategic venue than other industrial parks. Its geographical advantage is boosted by the comprehensive infrastructure system of HCMC ranging from Saigon- Hiep Phuoc Port, Saigon Premier Container Terminal to the upcoming Long Thanh – Ben Luc Expressway. This supporting infrastructure will facilitate its outreach to customers.
