

Selling pressure is still active

VN30 performance

The VN30 index formed the closing price at 1,052 pts. Relating to foreign trading activity, selling pressure surged with net sell value was VND680bn, mainly driven by large sell orders on VHM, MWG, and VPB.

VN30 Future chart: Strong rebound phase would occur

Selling pressure increased, pushing the instrument to close below MA200, confirming the long-term downtrend. Major MAs are sloping downward, implying the active bearish momentum and the bullish move is completely ended. Selling pressure near 1,100 pts zone is active which needs time to fully consume, this area would be the solid congestion zone. The bullish swing is completely paused and long positions are not valid during this period. However, the solid bearish candle on the previous trading day also confirmed the oversold condition which increases the probability for the intraday rebound phase to occur. During this period, short positions are extremely risky due to the high volatile market move. In order to reduce the risk, trader should wait for the consolidation phase to capture the good entry.

Technical strategy

Although there was the rebound phase on the previous trading day, the bearish swing is still active and there is no place for the bullish move to extend. However, during this period, short positions are extremely risky due to the high volatile market move. In order to reduce the risk, trader should wait for the consolidation phase to capture the good entry.
